From the number of strangers or seemingly strangers that have been in Crossfield during Chautauqua, it seems that if the community spirit was holding away here, no difficulty should be experienced in raising the necessary guarantee for the holding of Chautauqua. Each session has been very well attended, but great difficulty was met in disposing of season tickets.

The local Hockey team were visitors to Olds on Tuesday and met the Olds team in a League game. The result being 10-10. The game was called on account of darkness. Geo. Western Premiers' Conference To Discuss Unoccupied Land Problem

The announcement has been made in the Manitoba Legislature that Premier T. C. Norris will call a conference of the prairie province Premiers to consider what kind of uniform legislation is necessary to deal with the unoccupied land problem in Western Canada. It is also proposed that the conference consider the position of settlers now on the land with a view of finding ways and means to increase their productivity to the country.

It need not be argued that the calling of a conference for such a purpose is timely and in the national interest, for it has been well said that the economic future of the West and of Canada as a whole, depends upon the proper settlement of the unoccupied lands along existing railway lines and upon the improvement of conditions affecting the production of basic farm products.

The forthcoming conference is the outcome of various meetings held between the Western Provincial Cabinet Ministers and the officials of the Western Canada Colonization Association.

In the memorial recently presented to the Western Governments by the Managing Director of the Colonization Association, the view was clearly and strongly expressed that uniform legislation, calling for the listing of unoccupied lands at fair prices and for a reasonable period, was the keystone to the success of any genuine colonization movement.

It is idle to advance the theory that voluntary listing of unoccupied lands will suffice, for those who are in a position to judge as to the possible success of any voluntary movement are seriously impressed with the statement of General McRae that the proposed legislation is both reasonable and necessary, if the money subscribed to the Western Canada Colonization Association is to be expended in the national interest. The listing of unoccupied lands with the provincial governments will enable their Land Boards to issue maps and price lists similar to those now issued by the railway companies. Such maps and price lists will be generally distributed and will not only serve the purpose of the Western Canada Colonization Association, but as well all the land agencies throughout the provinces. In addition the necessary information will be provided to enable the Dominion Government to direct immigrants to the vacant lands near existing railway lines where homesteads are no longer available.

The unequalled endorsement given throughout the country to the proposal for provincial legislation is evidence that the people of the West are seriously anxious to effectively deal with, and find a solution for, the unoccupied land problem in the prairie provinces.

The proposed "inter-provincial Premiers' conference" will probably be held at an early date, the outcome of which will doubtless affect every community interest in the West. In the meantime every Board of Trade, Municipal Council, Farmers' Organization, and all interested public bodies and citizens, should give serious consideration to this important subject and make representations in regard thereto to their respective Governments. Some legislation undoubtedly is necessary to deal with the serious unoccupied land problem. Needless to say, every urban resident is affected by the success or failure of the farmer on the land and should therefore be vitally interested in the forthcoming Premiers' conference when agricultural conditions will be fully reviewed and an honest attempt made to find a remedy for existing ills.

Germany Lost Her Opportunity

Refused Chance to Make Voluntary Offer to Allies.

The British premier lays open the very core of the problem when he notes the change of attitude in Germany's spokesmen since the first days of their terror when they came as supplicants to Foch on November 11, 1918. Today Berlin is making excuses not merely for delay, but for avoidance of her debts. "She is beginning to challenge her responsibility," he says, and when her representatives "refuse to face their obligations they are cheered, and encouraged and supported."

Germany had an opportunity to make a voluntary offer, but she refused to take advantage of the offer. When forced to take action, the proposals she made were in the words of the British premier "exasperating." Today she is faced with an ultimatum backed by the rifles of Britain and the bayonets of France. If the terms are harsh Germany has only herself to blame.—The Montreal Star.

Discoverer of Radium Is Remarkable Woman

Madame Curie's Position In Scientific World Is Without Parallel In History.

Mrs. Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, is in New York to receive the gift of one gram of this very valuable element from American women. The rise of this woman to the position of a leading scientist of the world is without parallel in history. The daughter of a poor but distinguished Polish scientist, she worked her way up in the field of her choice until to day she bears the unique distinction of having, together with her husband, received the Nobel Prize award, being the first and only woman professor at the Sorbonne in Paris, of having refused the ribbon of the Legion of Honor because, as she put it, "I don't like decorations," of receiving the English Albert Medal from the Royal Society of Arts, the second to be granted to a woman, Queen Victoria having received the first. There were many more honors and decorations offered, but the response in almost all instances was similar to the one given to the suggestion of the Legion of Honor award.

WELL SATISFIED WITH BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Her confidence leads her to believe there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the many minor ailments of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. Eugene Boivert, East Aldfield, Quebec, writes: "My baby was terribly constipated, but after the use of Baby's Own Tablets he is entirely well again. I am so well satisfied with the Tablets that I lose no opportunity in recommending them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Allies Will Care For German Graves

Over 400,000 Estimated to be on French Soil.

A conference will shortly be held between the representatives of the British French and Belgian War Graves Commissions and German representatives, with regard to the treatment of German graves in Allied countries and of Allied graves in Germany. It is estimated that there are well over 400,000 German graves on French soil, and under 30,000 French graves in Germany. It is hoped that a satisfactory solution of this problem may be reached at the conference.

After Three Years Of Liquid Diet, Kaiser Is Picture Of Health

"I had lived on a liquid diet for three years and my case had twice been pronounced hopeless, but Taniae has completely overcome my stomach trouble and I eat meat, vegetables and everything else I want now," said Joseph S. Kaiser, a boiler-maker, who lives at 331 Beverley St., Winnipeg.

"My trouble dates back to a spell of the flu three years ago and from that time up until I took Taniae I steadily went down hill. For a whole year I was so weak I couldn't put my foot out of the house and while I spent hundreds of dollars trying to get on my feet, nothing helped me a particle. I just moped around the house so weak I couldn't even lift a shoelace of coal. I was suffering nearly every day from dizzy spells, headaches and awful attacks of nervousness. My skin got yellow and I fell off until I was hardly more than a walking skeleton.

"This was the fix I was in when a friend called and persuaded me to give Taniae a trial. He was certainly a friend in need. I improved right from the first dose. I am as sound as a dollar today, have put on twelve pounds in weight and look, so everybody tells me, the very picture of health. I feel twenty years younger and the change in me is so great that my friends who know what a desperate condition I was in see me now are simply amazed. I have never known anything in my whole life to equal it."

Taniae is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Barnado Boy's Success Accumulated Fortune of $15,000 In Twenty-Five Years.

A former Barnado boy, a farm laborer at Bowmanville, Ontario, was killed recently in an accident while working in a barn. He came to Canada twenty-five years ago from England as a boy and up to the time of his death worked as a farm laborer. He left an estate of $15,000; $1,000 he bequeathed to a Bowmanville hospital, $1,000 to the Barnardo Homes in England, and the balance to a brother in England. He came to Canada penniless, and was forty-four years of age at the time of his death.

Bolshevists Abandon Food Control

Order Came Too Late To Relieve Situation.

Lenine's abandonment of government control of foodstuffs came too late to relieve the situation in Bolshevik Russia, according to latest news received in Berlin from a family which has lived in Petrograd throughout the Bolshevik regime.

"The conditions are worse for us than they were when food was issued on cards," one letter stated. "We are told now that we may buy food, and the peasants are told they may sell food without violating government regulations. But there are no food shops. And the peasants about Petrograd have little food to sell. They don't want paper rubles."

London's Missing.

Every year no fewer than 30,000 persons are reported missing in London alone. Some of them are never seen nor heard of again; others, after weeks or months of absence, return and take up the threads of their former life as if they had never left it.

Saves Axles and Harness

Wheels turn easier and axles wear longer when they are properly lubricated with Imperial Mica Axle Grease. Its powdered mica flakes form a glassy surface for grease to work over. Thus friction is reduced and wear retarded. It costs less than any other grease because it lasts twice as long.

Imperial Eureka Harness Oil keeps your harness pliable, strong and new-looking. It gives leather a rich, black, shining finish, protects it from moisture, and adds years to its life. It is easily applied and is a big money-saver on repair bills.

Canada's Healthy Livestock

The report of the Veterinary Director General recently issued covers two years, the first part for the year ending March 31st, 1919, and the second part for the twelve months terminating March 31st, 1920. The health of Canada's live stock during both years is shown to have been highly satisfactory. In fact it is easy to believe that Canada is the healthiest country in the world for all breeds of live stock. No country can claim to be absolutely free from ailments in its cattle, horses, sheep and swine any more than it can that every human being is health-perfect. But Canada, it is safe to assert, comes nearer to the ideal state than any other land. None of the epidemic diseases that cause most anxiety to sanitary officials, such as foot and mouth diseases, cattle plague, and contagious pleuro-pneumonia, are found within our borders. Diseases that do exist to a very limited extent, such as glanders, hog cholera, and cattle mange, the report shows are being kept well under control and are diminishing in number year by year. Glanders is proven to have existed in Northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba and in those provinces extremely few cases are reported. All the outbreaks, the Veterinary Director General is able to state, have been efficiently dealt with and the disease eradicated. Where hog cholera and cattle mange have appeared vigorous action has immediately been taken with the result that contagion has been everywhere checked and districts entirely cleared. Regarding hog cholera, experience shows that nearly all cases originate on premises where garbage is fed to the animals. Cooking, if properly done, is stated to be an effective safeguard. Full statistics are given in the report of the activities undertaken all over the country which indicate the remarkable results achieved. A marked increase is shown in the number of live stock inspected for exportation in the year 1919-20 compared with the previous year, the figures being 340,000 as compared with 100,000.

Enter Mother-in-Law

By Ella Randall Pearce

The letter was addressed to Mrs. Franklin Kirby and its contents enfolded secrecy. "I want to surprise Franklin," wrote that young man's mother.

"And you've surprised Franklin's wife, too." This thought was slightly tinged with bitterness, for Vera had her pre-conceived notions of mother-in-law, and her first feeling was resentment that her happy little home was so soon to be invaded by the arch-enemy of domestic tranquility.

"Franklin's mother—of course, I expected to meet her some day. And of course, I'll do my best to get on with her. But now—Vera beat above the written page again.

"I'm coming for a visit, but if it suits me I may stay." Vera gave a gasp as she read. "The ideal—Cool, I call that. Coming for a visit—and may stay. Does that mean forever? Oh, well I'll have to hang out the welcome banners, for Franklin's sake.

Vera kept her secret during the next few days; but it rankled within her heart. You couldn't tell her anything about mother-in-law! She knew what they were like, even the best of them.

They never thought a woman quite good enough for their precious son—and Franklin was an only child! And they never quite approved the wife's housekeeping methods, especially her cooking. And they always considered the other woman a little extravagant, to say the least; and a little careless of hubby's comfort; and a little too fond of worldly pleasures.

"Oh, I'm sure to come in for criticism and advice," reflected Vera. "And Franklin thinks me quite satisfactory as I am. Now he's going to have my faults pointed out. Now he's going to learn how his mother-in-law married him and never can be quite as good as the mother he forsook."

Vera went about her daily tasks, conjuring up disturbing visions of what the advent of the elder Mrs. Kirby might mean. She had known Franklin but a short time before they were married; and she had not met a single member of his family. And there had been much for her to learn in the way of domestic arts and sciences. "And now I'll be told how far from perfect I am!" Vera shook her head as she went about the task of setting the guest room in order. It was also her sewing room, and now she would have to give up her needle work for the present.

"And, if it suits her, she'll stay," mused Vera. "I'd like to ask Franklin some questions about his mother, but I don't dare. He'd suspect. If only I knew more about her. First impressions are so important. Well, the scene is ready, the time is come, enter mother-in-law!" And then a taxi whirled up to the door, and the stranger guest whirled into the Kirby's living room and dropped all her bundles to embrace the waiting hostess.

"So this is Vera, little Vera. Why, you're head and shoulders above me," ran a laughing, silver-toned voice. "I'm going to take a good look at you when I get a chance. Oh, my roses—I'm dropping them all over the floor. They're for Franklin. I've brought some bon-bons for you, my dear."

The newcomer threw off her wraps and looked eagerly around.

"Franklin's home—if you knew how I've wanted to see it! Can't I look about now, every nook and corner?"

She slipped a hand childishly into Vera's clasp. "You modern young homemakers frighten me," she rippled. "You're so wise, so efficient, I never did learn to keep house." Then she laughed merrily. "But I kept a cheerful home, and that's something, I made Franklin's father happy. And I made Frank happy as long as he was with me. And now you're making him happy. I know by his letters."

She looked long and lovingly at Vera, and tenderly patted the hand she held. Isn't Franklin wonderful!" she said with enthusiasm. "Isn't he worth doing things for?"

They stepped into the tiny blue and white kitchen. Oh, just like a toy house," exclaimed Franklin's mother. "I believe I could work here and enjoy it! But I never did care for kitchens, and cooking seems a mysterious art. I always had the someone else do the cooking, and I gave my attention to the service end. I can pour tea to perfection."

Vera watched her in bewilderment as she went from room to room, talking enthusiastically of many things. She was an exquisite figure, slender and light-footed, with silver blond hair fashionably arranged, bright blue eyes and a fresh pink and white complexion. Her small nose uplified a trifle, and her was ample in her cheek. She had an air of permanent youth. The sort of person who never grows up, thought Vera. Yet there was wisdom and shrewdness, too, in her bright eyes; and an undercurrent in her silver-toned tongue that twanged at one's heart strings now and then.

"Such a dear sweet home. I'm going to be happy here while I stay. And I'm going to do all I can to make my visit a happy memory for you, you two dear children."

Children? Vera already felt old and sober beside this light-footed, light-footed stranger. The elder Mrs. Kirby tilted her head charmingly, with a sparkle of mischief in her glance.

"Did my little worry you? I always announce my visit in that way, that if I am quiet I shall stay. But I never stay." Her dimple came into play. "I am a wanderer. Franklin's father was living, we traveled together and so I got into gypsy ways. I have friends everywhere. So I come and visit, but I never stay."

Vera watched her vivacious guest as she arranged the roses she had brought in a cut-glass vase. A sudden tenderness crept into her heart. A thrilling longing, almost maternal in its nature, to draw that gay, roving, childish spirit within the sweet, protective circles of home life.

She went swiftly to the other woman's side and laid a caressing hand on her shoulder.

"I want you to remember, Mother Kirby," she said, and her voice quivered with newly awakened emotion, "Whenever you go, this is your home. Always. With Franklin and me. And always we shall want you to come and stay as long as you will."

Good Price For Wool Clip.
About $400,000 was received by Southern Alberta Stock owners for last year's wool clip. The total consignment through the Southern Alberta Wool Growers' Association amounted to 1,465,844 pounds, for which an average price of 28.83 cents was obtained. This is considered a very favorable figure in view of the state of the wool market.

South Africa Behind

In Caring For Veterans

Canadian Delegates Return From Conference With Marshal Haig

Marshal Haig has returned to England from South Africa, whither he had gone to preside at the empire conference of Great War Veterans. He said the British Empire Services League for ex-service men throughout the empire gave him a hearty welcome.

The two Canadian delegates to the Cape Town conference, R. B. Maxwell, of Winnipeg, Dominion President of the Great War Veterans' Association, and J. Morgan, of Toronto, representing the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, travelled back to England with Earl Haig.

Mr. Maxwell declared that South Africa was much behind the other dominions in caring for ex-service men.

More Gypsum in Canada

Large Reserve Available If Market Can Be Found

In drilling to test the commercial possibilities of the salt beds in the Fort McMurray district of the Athabasca River country, recently, it was found that there are nearly 100 feet of anhydrite and gypsum of commercial quality at depths ranging from 500 to 100 feet, and if a market can be found for it there is a large reserve available for development. Gypsum is one of the important non-metallic minerals of Canada, and is found in several of the provinces but was not known to exist in the far north. The total production of this mineral in Canada in 1920 was valued at $1,676,595, but the value of the deposits of the ore must run into many millions.

Refuse To Change

Wheat Grades

Ruling Is a Great Disappointment To American Farmers

United States wheat producers of the border country, and especially throughout the northwest, are keenly disappointed over a ruling just announced by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace refusing to change the federal grades on spring wheat, except in one small particular. The decision is regarded as a victory for millers, though Secretary Wallace promises a thorough investigation prior to marketing season a year hence. The Canadian grain trade is much interested in the situation.

Where Farming Pays.

Starting out to work a farm with a mortgage tacked on it for more than the farm was worth was the prospect of Sam Chute, of Berwick, Nova Scotia, 25 years ago. Last year he sold 20,000 barrels of his own apples, and about 60,000 quarts of strawberries. The old mortgage is gone and forgotten, except as a memento.

"Your Teeth"

By Rea Proctor McGee, M.D., D.D.S., Editor of Oral Hygiene.

IN LATER YEARS.

Copyright, 1921, by Rea Proctor McGee.

Time lies, in wait for every man and will get him sooner or later if something else doesn't. When time begins to get a man the question is, how well is he prepared to resist the downward drag of years? We know this drag is sure, but we all hope to make it slow. It must be terribly disconcerting for a man to suddenly have the skids knocked out from under him and to miss the pleasure of the long, quiet twilight of life. Not that any of us are yearning for that "quiet twilight" business, but it is the best we will have when time comes, so let's make the most of it.

It is a fact that men and women past fifty years of age, who have perfect teeth, are remarkably free from chronic disease. Very few people who are past fifty years and who show advanced pyorrhea and decay of the teeth have anything like normal health.

There are people seventy to ninety who have nearly perfect teeth and their splendid health leads us to believe that there is a definite connection, in old age, between good teeth and good health.

Many old people are vigorous who have well-fitted artificial teeth, much healthier in fact than people of the same age who have advanced pyorrhea, or a number of abscessed roots, or both, in their mouths.

Good artificial teeth are far preferable to diseased natural teeth.

Artificial teeth are made from porcelain. A great deal of careful study has been put upon the shapes, colors, types and contours of porcelain teeth. The making and fitting of plates to the mouth, and the arrangement of the teeth, both from the artistic and from the mechanical aspect, has been reduced almost to an exact science in America.

If we keep our machinery in good repair as we go, we will have no regrets when the time comes to reduce speed and jog along quietly to the end of the road.

LETTER FROM MRS. WAKELIN

Tells Remarkable Story of Sickness and Recovery.

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered greatly from weakness, seemed to be tired all the time, and had no ambition to do anything or go any place. My nerves were in bad shape, I could not sleep at night, and then came a breakdown. I read of Lydia E. The Thrift of the French

People Have Worked and Saved Money Since the Armistice.

France was depleted from by the war, terribly depleted financially by its expense. But what do we see now? Two years and a half after the armistice her people are able to invest 10,000,000,000 francs a year in bonds! There's a lesson in thrift, in saving, in resources, for the whole world! It has had anything to compare with it in America, our prosperity would be the marvel of all ages, our money power almost beyond computation. But France has not been spending billions for luxury since peace came to her. She's been saving her sons while we have enjoyed scattering our dollars. And they work in France—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

Old Fort Ellis and Sioux Indians

Crossing the Plains to Fort Carlton
Summer 1875.

The month was July and shortly after my arrival five York boats arrived from the furthest north point in the district, Lac du Brochet, situated at the northern end of that lake and semi-arctic in climate. About half the boat crews were Chippewyan Indians. It was my first meeting with this tribe and certainly a greater contrast in appearance to that of the plain Indians could not be found. They were rather short, more Asiatic in looks, many of them black-eyed, and they were not a pleasant looking lot, but by all accounts good hunters and industrious people. Brochet was a famous fur post, and as many of these men were noted hunters, they nearly all had considerable credits with the company, goods having run short at their home post. These balances ran from fifty skins to two and three hundred a man, and fortunately for us Mr. Pierre Deschambeault accompanied the brigade, he having succeeded his father before him in charge of that post and, moreover, speaking Chippewyan like a native. I and a young apprentice clerk named Jack Stewart, were detailed to the trading store and here we passed many hours settling up with these Indians who appeared to be very inferior to the Crees in intelligence.

Two or three were taken into the store at one time, Mr. Deschambeault being present, then goose-quills were solemnly counted out to them in accordance with the number of skins to their credit. At first we tried to hurry the procedure, but soon found that the more haste the less speed with these primitive men, as once they were confused and they would have to commence at the beginning and go all over the performance. The old depot as it was called in which the trading store was situated, was over a hundred years old, built of massive square timber, which had been rafted down the Saskatchewan River. Down on the floor squatted each Chippewyan, and spread out before him were the quills, and as he kept sorting them out in various little lots, would exclaim in guttural accents his wishes. The language they spoke was very different from any of the other native languages, I had heard, and sounded as if it was uttered from the back of the throat. Mr. Deschambeault would answer him in the same clucking accents and so on until my patience was sorely tried, as we were very busy and working every night. But at last a list would be given us and we would fill the order. In due time they were all paid off and then we had the boatmen to settle with, also much stuff to pack for various posts, as boats had to leave at a certain time to get at their destination before freeze-up.

Madame Belanger, who had been a Miss Marion, was a lady of much refinement, very kind to our youngsters and constantly entertained us. She had a beautiful garden in which cultivated roses formed a prominent feature, and these were quite equal to anything you would find in Eastern Canada. Madame Deschambeault, who had accompanied her husband to headquarters, was a gay young creature, and only too delighted to get away from the long isolation of Lac du Brochet to the comparative civilization of Cumberland House where dances were held several times weekly. (Pierre himself detested so-called civilization, and counted the days until he could return to his beloved north country. He was known to be possessed of a considerable private income (which he took good care of) and in an incident sent down some years before, just after he was married, there was included with his private order one very indispensable article of China, that is generally kept under the bed. Some wag changed this to one dozen and again at the Fort Garry Depot the dozen was erased and gross written in, so that no less than twelve cases containing 144 of these articles were shipped to Brochet on Pierre's private account, the freight, of course, amounting to many times the prime cost. This was the first trip he had made to Cumberland since these goods were forwarded and as the story was well known, we were all glad to hear the result, but Pierre remained discreetly silent in regard to it. He, however, finally produced a bale of most beautiful beaver and other skins. "Hello," was Factor Belanger's remark, "what is this? You well know private trade is not allowed." "Well," was his slow and cautious reply "when kind friends send me up so much China I let the fact be known to the Chippewyans that some entirely new vessels had just come in which were variably used by white people, and they shortly became the rage, and the Indian family who could not serve up caribou soup in one of them was not counted amongst the elite of savagdom." There was a great laugh. Truly Pierre had one on the crowd, and he was at one given to him for the total cost of the goods, while the company annexed the fur. A slow smile spread over his face, and he sure was not so slow, now was he?

We at last had all goods ready for Lac du Brochet, Pelican Narrows and other posts, and one fine day away they went on the long and arduous journey of many portages and rapid rivers, not to mention Lac Brochet itself, which is said to be some two hundred and eighty miles long and full of islands. In fact one year in foggy weather the boat brigade having got off their direct course, which was marked by lobsterkins from island to island, got lost for a week. The whole lake is still a terra incognita and though geologists have reported valuable mineral veins it is even at this late date unexplored, like so much of the great north country.

Factor Belanger, having decided to go east for the winter on a visit to his people, the Pas was made headquarters for the district, and a Mr. Alex. Matheson (chief clerk) a very talented Scotchman, was placed in charge of the district, with myself as an assistant. Alas, all the districts accounts (covering a country extending from Grand Rapids at the mouth of the Saskatchewan River to a point midway between Brochet and Churchill, roughly speaking some seven hundred miles in length) came to The Pas for my education, but these I have mentioned in a former article.

Mr. Matheson rose to be a chief factor in the service, his last charge being Fort William. His death occurred some years ago and was greatly lamented. He was very much beloved in the service by employees and Indians alike; in fact to know him was to love him, and, personally, I owe him a deep debt of gratitude for helping to shape my future.

Big Sum Has Been Paid For Silver Lead Mines.

REVELSTOCK, B.C.—The Waverley-Tangier Silver Lead Mines, situated at the head waters of Downie Creek have been purchased by the Walters Investment Company of Spokane, Washington. The exact terms of the deal are not disclosed, but it is known that $200,000 has been paid already and that the Walters interests have spent another $10,000 for development work, which includes the construction of eight miles of wagon road from Albert Canyon, B.C., to the property.

Coal Freight Rate Cut

Reduced 10 Per Cent. From Alberta Mines to Prairie Provinces.

WINNIPEG.—A reduction of ten per cent in the rates on coal from the Alberta mines to the three prairie provinces is granted by the Railway Commission in a judgment according to an Ottawa dispatch to the Winnipeg Evening Free Press. The despatch says:

"The mine operators and the dealers alike co-operated in an application to the board for a 20 per cent reduction. The board grants 10 per cent, pointing out that when there was a general increase in freight rates last fall coal did not figure to the same extent as other commodities and that with such a reduction the increase would not be more than five per cent. The order is effective June 1, and expires August 31."

Record Journey

Made To Reace River

First Party Travelling By Boat Has Arrived.

PEACE RIVER, ALTA.—The first party to reach Peace River by the water route from Prince George, B.C., this season, has arrived. During the course of their trip they were forced to cut through the ice on Summit Lake. A record was made as the journey was accomplished in seven canoeing days and 101 miles were made down the Peace River in one day.

The party included C. J. Vernon MacKenzie, editor of MacLean's Magazine; H. Weston Taylor, of Philadelphia; and W. V. Chambers, of Bermuda, who are gathering magazine material.

C.N. Station Dynamited. Montreal.—Much damage was caused at Cushing on the Canadian National Railway about five miles north of Carleton, by the dynamiting of the station. It is believed that the outrage was an act of spite owing to the removal of the station facilities from one point to another. There were no persons on the premises at the time. No arrests have yet been made.

Many Injured In Fire Which Destroys Dublin Custom House

Seven Civilians and One Auxiliary Killed In Catastrophe Alleged to be Work of Sinn Fein.

Dublin.—The Dublin Customs House is in ruins and all the most important documents of the Government relating to Ireland together with papers and records, the value of which cannot be estimated, have been destroyed. This, Dublin Castle officially announces, is the work of Sinn Fein forces, which made the most formidable attack against Government property that has been engineered since the present rebellion was started.

LONDON.—The Irish office has issued the following official report on the Customs House fire at Dublin:

"Three tenders carrying auxiliary cadets and accompanied by an armed car approached the Dublin Customs House shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. As they approached the building, a number of bombs were thrown at the tenders from the railway bridge, while revolver fire was opened on them from the windows of the Customs House, which was occupied by a large force of Sinn Fein."

"The cadets dismounted under heavy fire and surrounded the Customs House which was seen to be burning. Fires from the auxiliaries and the machine gun on the armored car was poured into the windows of the Customs House, from which the rebels replied vigorously and a series of desperate conflicts followed between the crown forces and seven or eight parties of rebels who rushed from different doors of the building, making dashes and firing as they ran. The first party to emerge consisted of three men, one of whom was killed and the other two wounded."

"By this time smoke and flames were pouring from the building and the official staff, including many women, who had been held prisoners by the rebels, came flocking out with hands above their heads, waving white handkerchiefs. While the staff was making its exit, the rebels made a last sortie, this party consisting of six men, only one of whom escaped, the rest being killed or wounded."

"Some of the auxiliaries then stormed the blazing building where many of the rebels surrendered. Some of them were found to be saturated with petrol and several were probably burned to death before the crown forces entered."

"The firemen were held up at the fire station by rebels so that the fire engines did not arrive until 2 o'clock by which time the fire had taken hold of the entire building. At the conclusion of the fighting, dead and wounded rebels lay about on all sides of the building while the ground was strewn with broken glass and empty cartridge cases."

Irrigation Project Will Involve Vast Area Of Alberta Arid Land

By tapping the North Saskatchewan and Clearwater Rivers near Rocky Mountain House—probably the Red Deer, the Blind Man and Battle Rivers—it is estimated that a total flow of 5,800,000 acre-feet of water could be made to supply some 2,400,000 acres of arid land lying south of the railroad line between Coronation and Saskatoon; and with a view to considering the advisability and possibility of such a project, the local irrigation department of the Dominion Government is sending out a reconnaissance party to that district to investigate the details thereof.

William Pearce, of Calgary, who takes a very broad and advanced view of this project, has submitted to the local irrigation department a comprehensive outline of the details and possibilities of such a scheme. His conception is of a government area, which, while not commonly so considered, is really in a dry belt, where natural hay crops cannot be successfully raised and where no natural surface water supply is sufficient to support that amount of livestock which should be kept on farm lands.

It is described as an immense proposition involving an enormous area of land. Mr. Pearce's idea is to carry an artificial supply of water through this great area and to distribute it primarily for the purpose of establishing the stock industry; and also for supplying summer pasture and carrying the stock through the winter.

The water from the above original sources of supply would be diverted into Buffalo Lake and supply a rectangular area 130 by 180 miles square, lying south of the railway passing through Coronation, Kerrobert, Dodds, Biggar and Saskatoon, and embodying a gross acreage of 2,900,000 square miles. And assuming that 40 per cent of this territory would be directly irrigated, the net irrigated would be approximately 1,160,000 acres of actually irrigated land. It is estimated that 100 per cent irrigation would be required for the Berry Creek district; and, no doubt, also that district lying north of the Youngstown. Twenty-five per cent of the irrigation for grazing would be supplied in the winter for summer pasture, and stock water for drinking purposes would be distributed. Detailed investigation is being made by the local office of the irrigation department, with a view to ascertaining the feasibility of such a project.

New Red Cross Is Militant Will Not Only Relieve Distress But Prevent Disease

"There is a distinct difference between the old Red Cross, which existed for such a splendid purpose during the war, and the Red Cross which is now in our midst," declared a prominent Winnipeg official of the Manitoba branch. "The difference between the two organizations, while not visible to the naked eye, is summed up in the one word 'militant.' The present Red Cross Society must be a militant organization to function properly through the years that are to come. The Red Cross must do more than cure wounds and relieve distress; it must also take care of the preventable diseases, disease and ignorance, it must carry the war into the enemy's land and constantly push forward and complete its defenses."

Postpone Western Canadian Tour. The Inland Daily Press Association, Chicago, voted to abandon its proposed tour of Western Canada this summer at the guests of the Canadian Government. Although the Canadian Parliament had carried an appropriation for the trip, the invitation was temporarily withdrawn when a reduction of fares on Canadian railroads could not be obtained.

Striking Miners Find Fresh Seam of Coal

Unemployed Are Exploiting Good Fortune to the Full

A remarkable feature of the miners' stoppage in Northumberland, has been the discovery of what appears to be fresh seams of coal.

Thousands of miners and women, armed with picks and shovels, have taken possession of an old working, near Morpeth. The banks of the River Coquet have been tunneled as deep as 20 feet in search of coal, and the search has been more than ordinarily successful.

Big sums of money are being made by the pitmen. In some cases as much as £6 a day has been realized.

Out Of Agriculture

Basic Condition Upon Which May Be Built Happiness and Well Being

Out of successful agriculture can grow successful manufacturing, and healthy industrial life. Only from "it," fundamentally, comes the means for existence of the lawyers, the doctors, the literary, and the other indispensable servants of civilized communities. Every tax is, in the last analysis, a tax on the farm and the farmer. Only out of agriculture—as its fundamental support—can arise the successful administration of a complicated modern form of government. Success in agriculture is the necessary basic condition upon which may be built the happiness, contentment, and well being of a people, and the stability of a government.—Banker Farmer.

Nine-Year-Old Travels To Dakota

Small Boy Going Alone From Cardiff To Aberdeen, E.D.

On his way from Cardiff, Alberta, where he has been visiting relatives for the past year, little nine-year-old Vivian Tichborne walked into the Canadian Pacific ticket office, Edmonton, and asked in a business-like way for a through ticket to Aberdeen, South Dakota. The ticket was made out for him, still in the same business-like manner the youngster, pulled from his wallet a fifty dollar bill in payment.

He was about to walk out of the office with his ticket and change when Charles Fyle, city ticket agent, asked: "Where are you folks?"

"Oh, I'm travelling alone; going back to my mother, you know," answered the boy with the same degree of confidence that he had shown his entry into the C.P.R. building. "You had better get a little information about your journey," suggested Mr. Fyle.

"I guess not, I came up here the same way," came the answer. That night, the kid step in the Y.M.C.A. He could not make his connections or would have departed on his long lone journey shortly after his arrival from Cardiff.

Genial Charles Fyle finally gave the youngster all particular about his journey and with the admonition that he better not fall asleep while waiting for the train connections in Calgary, nine-year-old Vivian smilingly walked out of the office as much as to say: "What do you think I am; leave it to me."

What Every Husband Knows. "It is hard to please women," sighed Binks.

"What's up now?" asked Jinks, sympathetically.

"Why, my wife has harped so on how much more attention men pay to women before marriage that I had a big bunch of roses sent home, and took her a box of chocolates."

"And wasn't she pleased?" asked the other.

"Oh, I don't know. She's been talking ever since about how much more sensible it would have been if I had sent some a ham and brought a new doormat with me."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Tribune.

Duke of Connaught Won People in India

Conspirators Tried to Make Trouble But Were Unsuccessful

By all accounts the Duke of Connaught wrought wonders in India. That is the unanimous testimony of the British correspondents who accompanied the Duke on his visit, undertaken at the request of the King-Emperor, in connection with the opening of the new Legislature, under the enlarged powers of the new Government. Rule measures it might be called.

The general temper was sullen. The great Princes surrounded the Duke in barbaric splendor. The uniforms of the great chiefs were encrusted with diamonds. The ransom of kings shone upon the breasts of the native aristocracy, with a blinding light; but Mr. Gandhi, the arch-conspirator, and those he could influence, did their utmost to make the visit of the Duke of no effect. His Royal Highness perceived all this and determined upon a capture of hearts. He is as we all know, an accomplished diplomat. He has a magnetic personality. His sympathies are quick and warm. He knew the East Indian character—insofar as any living authority can understand the elusive and patient and immemorial East. While in India he mingled with the people with democratic ease, and by such means won their hearts; and at the critical moment, when the new Legislature was about to be opened, the Duke, by his manner, by his graciousness, but above all, by his placatory and assuaging words, captured all present. It was felt that the language of the Duke was his own. Formal words there had to be, but the benignity of the words addressed directly to the people, the sympathy with the natives in their progress, the regret expressed for policies and the results of policies not always wise; but chiefly, the humaneness of his attitude, his warm grasp of the hand, his happy recollections of pleasant days in India—all conspired to win the people who acclaimed him again and again.—Montreal Gazette.

New International Language Invented

Invention of Berlin Architect Is Based On Numbers

Tiemer, a new international language, is described in an explanatory lecture by the inventor, a Berlin architect named Tiemer. The new language is based on numbers and their combinations, the first 200 figures standing for words and numbers, and speech in daily use, while another 6,000 figures correspond with so many words. By means of added signs 12,000 combinations may be constructed. The inventor explained that ideas are the same throughout the civilized world only the modes of expressing them in words varying in every country. The figures corresponding with the same words in any language will convey the same meaning to everyone. He admitted that this crude system will not be suitable for Shakespeare translations, but will be a ready means of communication for trade purposes and all requirements of ordinary life.

Russian Trade Revival

Meeting of Commercial Organizations Held at Paris

An important conference of surviving Russian industrial and commercial concerns was convened in Paris recently. Examination will be made into the economic ruin caused by the Bolsheviks. There also will be discussion of the possibility of a revival of business and on the question of participation by foreign capital in the rehabilitation of the country. Among the 34 Russian industrial organizations represented were the Russian manufacturers and merchants' association of London, and similar Russian bodies in Switzerland, Turkey and Germany.

Calgary's Industrial Progress

Britain Justified In Refusing Irish Sovereignty Says American Writer

The doctrine of the self-determination of little nations is wrong and Great Britain is justified in refusing the Irish sovereignty, despite the best claims of Ireland for the world's sympathy and support in a sincere fight, according to Dr. Hawkins, an American writer.

"The doctrine of self-determination," states Dr. Hawkins, "widely proclaimed since the World War, has been fruitful of nothing but strife and turmoil in many parts of the earth. It has drenched Ireland in blood and stirred bitterness and strife. It is a doctrine which sounds well when proclaimed by idealists and political dreamers, but, except in rare cases, is false in principle and impossible in practice."

"There is one principle greater than the principle of self-determination, namely, the law of national self-preservation and safety. 'The first and unalterable right of every nation is the right of its own preservation.' We fought for this principle in the days of the Civil War. The South proclaimed the right of self-determination. Lincoln proclaimed the fact that there was a law greater than the right of a nation to self-determination, namely, the right of a nation to maintain itself, one and undivided. That war determined forever for the United States the principle that no section of this country should have the right to determine what its government should be, or what its institutions should be, so long as its desires conflicted with the rights of the whole nation. That war was the death blow in America to the doctrine of self-determination."

"Great Britain," said to fight the development of Canada herself. With an alien people in possession of her whole Atlantic seaboard, her commercial life would have been killed and her future greatness would have been an impossibility. The very safety of the British Empire depended upon her power to deny the right of self-determination. It was denied, and the French, against their will, were forced to accept British sovereignty.

The same principle applies to the struggle between Great Britain and Ireland. "You may make as strong a case for Ireland as you will on the ground of sympathy; you may, if you will, build an argument on that ground that is unanswerable; you may dig into the past and out of the tomb of history bring all the charges you may against England in her treatment of Ireland; you may build your argument on the noble spirit of independence of the Irish people and their rights to be a nation to themselves, but after all your arguments you come against the fact that Ireland is geographically a piece of land at the very doors of England, so close to England that were she independent her guards could sweep the waters on which the English ships must steam into Liverpool and Glasgow, and in case of war could shut England from the outside world and starve her in a fortnight, and that a nation, so situated and completely first of all to care for its own well-being, could never grant self-determination to a land situated as Ireland is."

"We may visualize the problem by bringing it to our own doors. Suppose the Olympic peninsula were slightly inhabited by Indians; suppose they owned the land and had owned it for 500 years; suppose they had created a literature all their own, institutions and a religion all their own and the place was thoroughly Indian. Then suppose they should say to us, we demand self-determination. We might be generous enough to say, we recognize the force of many of your arguments, but there is one thing which is above all of your arguments and that is the safety of the United States. We can never have at our doors a foreign state which in time of war might bottle up our harbor, destroy our commerce and make ineffective our fighting force. The safety of the United States depends upon keeping you a part of our country, that in time of peace and in time of war we may control our harbors, direct our commerce with freedom and defend our coast."

"The whole question between Great Britain and Ireland is fundamentally not a question of religion, as is often asserted, nor is it a question between the North and South of Ireland. It is a question of geography. On the Eastern shore of our country Long Island stretches from Cape Cod, New York. As well think of populating that island with some foreign race and then giving it an independent government as for England to think of giving a free and independent government to the Irish Republic. Millions of dollars in this country have been raised to carry forward the battle. It is time that Americans began to free themselves from the fallacies of this doctrine of self-determination of small nations, to recognize the fact that there is one law greater than that of self-determination, namely, the law of the safety and self-preservation of nations. This latter law is the chief factor which England must consider in her treatment of Ireland. It is time that Americans recognized it and that we gave to England our moral support that these conflicts which are contributing to the general unsettlement of the world may be terminated."

There has been a great deal of propaganda in our country to win the interest of our citizens to the 'Irish Republic.' Millions of dollars in this country have been raised to carry forward the battle. It is time that Americans began to free themselves from the fallacies of this doctrine of self-determination of small nations, to recognize the fact that there is one law greater than that of self-determination, namely, the law of the safety and self-preservation of nations. Chinamen Make Better Citizens Than Reds

Are Willing to Work and Do Not Cause Trouble

A Toronto Chinaman has written a letter to one of the Toronto papers which makes interesting reading, if only because of its attempt to express himself in English. But he has ideas, too. He points out that the Chinaman is compelled to pay $500 head tax in order to get in his country. His opportunity is limited, yet he finds useful work to do and he does it. Apart from a little gambling now and then and an occasional indulgence in opium he gives no trouble. He doesn't organize strikes, he doesn't denounce the constitution, he doesn't seek to overturn the established order of things. Ordinarily he is peaceful, civil and quiet. Yet he has no standing in the country.

Compare him with the Red, who pays no head tax, who does not want to work himself or to allow others to work and who is constantly giving trouble by his inflammatory language and his revolutionary methods. The comparison is not without significance especially at the present time, when members of the Red element use the freedom of this country to denounce its institutions and to preach revolution after the Russian fashion. If Russia is such an ideal country, why aren't these people going there and stay?—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

A. B. C. Town Pastes Out

"I don't think anyone else will register from there in many a day," said G. K. Sprout, as he wrote "Phonics, B. C.," after his name in a Toronto hotel register. "Phonics was a busy city of 2,000 population a few years ago. Then the ore petered out. There's not a soul living there now. I'm on my way to Kirkland Lake."

ATLAS LUMBER Co'y. BUILD IT NOW

Reconstruct the Old Home For Longer Usefulness

Reconstruction begins at home. If the old house isn't all you desire, and you can't build a new one, a little of the right kind of repairing and remodeling will readily restore it to present day standards.

Perhaps it's a new porch, a summer kitchen, a side entrance, a new rock extra room in the attic or a renewing of old, cracked walls and ceilings that is needed.

The right kind of lumber used in the right way will make the change and we have all the material you will require including that knotty and crackless manufactured lumber Beaver Board, for better walls and ceilings.

Suppose you ask us about it?

LOCAL AND GENERAL

H. Hudson, of Carlsbad was fined $5.00 and costs, on Wednesday, June 8th, by Justice Lewis, at Crossfield, for furious driving through the village. We take this opportunity of mentioning that this fast driving ought to be stopped, the above fine was very light in consideration of the danger ensuing from speeding on the main thoroughfare. We have it on good authority that the above fine is more of a warning and the next offender will be dealt with more severely. Better drive on the soft peddle.

The Presbyterian General Assembly gave an overwhelming vote in favor of union. The motion "That the general assembly take such steps as may be deemed best to consummate organic union as expeditiously as possible", received the support of 414 ministers and elders. While the amendment "That the assembly at no time seek the consummation of organic union without a clear and unmistakable mandate from the people", was supported by but 107 ministers and elders. This means that the question of church union is now settled and the United Church of Canada will be formed in the near future, composed of Congregationalists, Methodists and Presbyterians.
